Karuaihe-Upi promised the world the best coverage in high definition television format. “Plans are at an advanced stage to beam a world class event to the world, from the start of the competition on the 10th to the 25th of June this year. Our international partners and other key players have joined hands with a local team of experts to bring to every home in Southern Africa the best of football coverage from Namibia,” commended Karuaihe-Upi.

Namibia will host the high class event for the first time and has contracted the nbc to broadcast 21 matches live, with the exception to the two final group matches that will be played simultaneously. As per the agreement with the local organizing committee and COSAFA, only one of the two final group games will be broadcast live on the 15th and 16th of June 2016.

The national broadcaster has also announced that with the advent of the DTT platforms the Namibian viewer has been provided a much wider choice. The platform has given the nbc an opportunity to cover the UEFA EURO 2016 competition taking place in France. ABOUT Digital Terrestrial TV (www.nbc.na/dtt_home)
Digital television is a new way of broadcasting television. Although digital terrestrial television changes the way pictures are sent to your TV, it won’t change the way you watch television.
Since the beginning of television, we’ve been watching what is known as ‘analogue television’: TV signals are broadcast using radio waves, which are picked up by an aerial and sent down a wire to your TV, the analogue television receiver. Your set then changes the analogue signal into pictures and sound. nbc boasts altogether with Six (6) channels on its DTT bouquet – nbc1, nbc2, nbc3, One Africa, TBN and EduTV.
